Participation for health: Framework for action 2009-2013

Addressing the social and economic determinants of mental and physical health

Key social and economic determinants of mental and physical health al connection Freedom				Access to economic resources
Involvement in In community sport and ar		Supportive relationships Involvement in community and group activities Civic engagement		Social, emotional, physical and economic security Equitable and respectful relationships		Valuing diversity Physical security and respect Equality of opportunity		Work Education Housing Money
Population groups and action areas
Young people Cultu Women and men Rural			oups ous communities Illy diverse communition ommunities with a disability	Research, monitoring and evaluation Direct participation programs Organisational development (including workforce development)		Strengthening communities and community environments Communications and social marketing Advocacy Legislative and policy reform
Settings for action
Housing	Communi	ity	Education Workplace		2	Sport and recreation		Health		Academic
Transport	Corporate		Public secto Arts		Local government		Justice		New technology
Intermediate outcomes
Individual			Organisational			Community Societal
Projects and programs that facilitate: • involvement in community and group activities; • self efficacy; • self determination and control; • political and civic efficacy; • taking responsibility for others; • respectful, supportive and equal relationships; • acceptance of diversity; • access to education and employment; and • mental health literacy.		trol; iers;	Organisations that: • are inclusive, responsive, safe and supportive; • work in partnerships across sectors; • implement evidence-informed approaches to their work; and • sustain change.		 Environments that: are inclusive, responsive, safe and supportive; value civic engagement; are cohesive; promote community responsibility; reflect awareness of mental health and wellbeing issues; and sustain change. 		A society with: • integrated, sustained and supportive policies and programs; • strong legislative platforms for mental health and wellbeing; • appropriate resource allocation; and • responsive and inclusive governance structures.
Long-term benefits
Individual	Individual		Organisational		Community			Societal
 Increased sense of belonging Improved physical health Less stress, anxiety and depression Less substance misuse 		ing	 Resources and activities integrated across organisations, sectors and settings 		 Community valuing of diversity and actively disowning discrimination Less violence and crime Improved productivity 			 Reduced social and health inequalities Improved quality of life and life expectancy

• Enhanced skill levels